

VOODOO RAGE

The man of the house has become addicted to playing computer games. Because of this serious obsession, both of you have been drawn into a huge mega-puter console that lies hidden in another dimension.

Your task is to stop him from playing with all the mini-puter consoles scattered about. The action is spread across twenty exciting screens in this hi-tech nightmare.

There are two ways to stop his maniacal rampage through the console. First, there is the ever reliable rolling pin, once you have managed to locate it, which is very difficult, you then have to try and get it. Once in your possession you must strike him over the head, but be careful, if you hit him when he is not playing with one of his little consoles he gets extremely upset with you and kills you.

The second method, and somewhat easier, is to have a VOOODOO RAGE. A voodoo rage is like having thirty mothers who all lose their tempers at the same time. Unlike real life a voodoo rage only lasts for 10 seconds in which everything that scores counts as double and you become invincible to all attacks. You only have ten voodoo rages, an extra one is awarded for every 10,000 points you score, so don't waste them. Also don't forget the mad game player does not like to be picked on for nothing, choose your time well.

You must progress through the screens by picking up all the household objects you come across, all this time he tries to resist playing the games, but he is only human — isn't he?

This game can be played with a joystick or from the keyboard

GO LEFT	PRESS ←
GO RIGHT	PRESS →
TO JUMP	PRESS SPACE BAR OR FIRE
VOODOO RAGE	PRESS CTRL
SOUND ON/OFF	PRESS DEL
TO PAUSE	PRESS RETURN
TO CONTINUE	PRESS ANY KEY
CHANGE SCREEN	PRESS CLR

If you jump and miss, jump again as soon as possible it could keep you out of trouble. Also Whilst in flight your direction is controllable.