It couldn't be simpler. You get pieces of different sizes and shapes. One by one you put them down on the playing board – soon you've made your first loop. Yeaahh!

Now it's not so easy. This time you didn't get the pieces you wanted. Never mind – just start another loop.

All of a sudden the board's getting just a little too crowded. Now you're struggling to find a place to drop the pieces (who cares where they go, you can't afford to let the timer run down because you'll lose a life).

Now it's getting really hectic. Did you honestly think this game was simple (and this is just the first level of Game A).

Pretty soon you'll be dreaming about LOOPZ. Wondering if next time you'll be able to make a longer loop than ever before – or more loops than your record. Will LOOPZ drive you crazy? You bet!

- Easy to learn, dangerously addictive – and incredible fun to play
- Game A offers ten skill levels – you'll never beat level 9
- Game B takes you through the levels – with special bonus games if you do really do well
- Game C is a real puzzle – well 50 of them to be exact!
- One or two can play – so why not go loopy with a friend! Play co-operatively or competitively, the choice is yours
- Incredible four-channel sampled in game music and sound effects by David Whittaker (Atari ST, Amiga and Macintosh only – IBM version supports Roland and Ad Lib cards)
