S U R V I V O R

Floating somewhere in space, circling a long-dead planet, is a huge spaceship loaded with all sorts of life from a thousand worlds. The ship is dark, strange, and powerful, with sufficient energy to shred the very fabric of the universe. Its masters own technological secrets beyond all imagination, and their utterings are the law for thousands of races all over the galaxy. Nevertheless, these powerful creatures have a terrible problem...

Somewhere inside the enormous structure, scrabbling along an air vent, or crawling around the hibernation chambers and control rooms, or creeping along the moving walkways, a solitary creature is fighting for its own survival and that of its kind. The creature is the end product of a million years' worth of evolution in a dying world. Extremely clever, with fully developed savage instincts, with steel-hard muscles, and diamond-hard eyes, this creature resists the domination of its masters.
